Spotlight on: Our Worship Pastor's Wife

By Bryley Weaver

Get Right

I was very blessed to grow up in a Godly Christian home. My dad is a pastor, and we had family devotions around the breakfast table each morning before school. On Good Friday, when I was 7 years old, my dad was reading a children's devotion about a little boy whose dog ran away. The boy found the dog and had to pay to get the dog back, even though the dog already belonged to him. This analogy helped me to truly understand the Gospel for the first time, and that year I understood why Good Friday is GOOD! Jesus had "bought me back!" I accepted Jesus as my Lord and Savior and began to grow in my faith. God has really taught me to trust Him through different decisions and life changes along the way. I tend to want to plan everything, and God continues to teach me that His ways are higher than mine.

Get In

I feel as though God has been preparing me to be a worship pastor's wife since childhood. I've always loved music, and took piano lessons growing up. I've been playing piano in church and singing in choir since before I can remember. I grew up watching my mom serve alongside my dad in ministry, and I couldn't have asked for better example of a loving and supportive pastor's wife. When Nick and I were called to ministry, I knew I wanted to be just like my mom. I enjoy being able to serve alongside Nick in ministry. God calls us to use our gifts and talents for Him, and I am so blessed that Nick and I get to use our gifts together.

Get out

As an elementary school teacher, I view my 4th grade classroom as my personal mission field. I teach students that come from a variety of backgrounds, including some that do not have a loving and stable home environment. I know that my smile, hug, or encouragement may be the only loving interaction some of my students receive that day. I pray that God's love shines through me each day in my actions, and when the opportunity arises, through my words. Whenever the topic of God, Creation, or faith comes up in class, I jump at the opportunity to share what I believe. This Christmas season, I've had several opportunities to talk about the true meaning of Christmas with my students. I pray for my students daily, and I am humbled that God has chosen me to impact their young hearts and minds.
